

Department of Radiologic Sciences Non-Tenure Track, Instructor/Senior Instructor Faculty Position

The University of South Alabama invites applications for a non-tenure track, 12-month faculty position at the rank of Instructor or Senior Instructor in the Department of Radiologic Sciences.

Applicants for the rank of Instructor must have at least a Bachelor's degree from a regionally accredited institution, current ARRT certification in radiography and 3 years of clinical experience in diagnostic radiography. Applicants without a Master's degree in a related field are required to have a minimum of 18 hours of graduate coursework and obtain their Master's degree within 1 year (12 months) of hire date to be considered for this position.

To be considered for the rank of Senior Instructor, the applicant must have a Master's degree in a related field, a minimum of 7 years, full-time teaching experience in a JRCERT accredited program, post-primary certification in and advanced modality, and demonstrate active participation in professional organizations.

Primary duties include didactic instruction, supervision of students in the clinical setting, service, and scholarly activity that advances the practice of diagnostic imaging. The department serves approximately 90 students annually and offers modern learning environments to include 4 energized labs, well-equipped classrooms, 12 diagnostic imaging clinical education settings, and access to a state-of-the-art simulation lab. The program is JRCERT accredited and is housed within the Pat Capps Covey College of Allied Health Professions, which offers a wide variety of research opportunities and teaching support. The University of South Alabama is located in historic Mobile, on the beautiful Gulf Coast between New Orleans and the Florida panhandle.
